Splendid Success for Women's Institute

Sophronia's Wedding

It was certainly a splendid play that the Women's Institute to Advertise last week, that the one price of Admission included everything: Play, Refreshments and Dance, for they had the Hall packed to its uttermost, clearly showing it "Does Pay to Advertise." Everyone is well acquainted with the Cast of Characters, as the complete Program was Advertised for two weeks in the Bow Island and Burdett Reviews

When the Curtain was raised at the commencement of the play, the very quaint old styles of Dresses, Bonnets, etc. which were very pretty and becoming to the Ladies who were there, created an interest at once for the audience, everyone were a smile as the play proceeded, it was intensely human, and very amusing to hear the Ladies talking. During the first interval, two little girls danced very prettily accompanied by the Violin, played by Mr. H. Hagen, the little girls were, Ada Hagen and Fern Allen, they were dressed in pale yellow dresses, trimmed with green, little shamrock leaves adorned the two flounced skirts, with broad green sashes and large green bows tied their hair, they were greatly appreciated by the audience, who encircled them, the little girls returned and danced again

In the second interval, little Greta Ostrum, so well known for her pretty singing and actions, sang a song all about her "Alice Blue Gown" she looked very sweet in her blue dress and hat and did her share to the song splendidly, she also was encircled and returned to sing "Mary, Mary"

During the play, two old favorite songs were sung, "The Old Oaken Bucket" and "When you and I where young Maggie" causing many tears and heartbreaking sobs from the other ladies on the stage and much laughter from the audience
Then Sophronia thought it would be best to change from address to money times, and so called in "Jules" who played some very lively jigs, and it was very funny to see the effect it had on all the Ladies, the tears were all gone, and their feet, heads and hands all keeping time to the music, indeed it was so effective as to fetch two of the ladies on their feet, to keep time to the music the one Mrs. Alden Doddridge in her brilliant skirt and large Paisley silk shawl and large early Victorian bonnet executed a little dance to and fro, to the great delight of the audience, who certainly cheered her on loudly, and there was only one fault to find, everyone wanted more of that quaint dancing.

After Sophronia's Wedding was over the account of it was read out of the "Bow Island and Burdett Reviews" by Lottie Anna Sykes and the description of the Ladies dresses was very pleasing, bringing many smiles to the ladies faces at the the splendid portrayal of their Gowns, Bonnets, Boas, etc. by the same paper

Then the Village Postmistress came in with a Receipt of the Wedding from the "Review" Office for each of the Ladies and all the Ladies voted Sophronia's Wedding a great success, even down to the eating of Devil's Food Cakes, excepting Mrs. Uriah Smogras, who kept her stately dignity as the widow of the late Deacon Smogras so well, that she was not to be tempted with eating anything with such a name as that

But as everything good comes to an end, this was no exception to the rule, it was finished by the singing of "God Save the King," then the chairs were arranged and a lovely lunch was served to all, the Ladies must surely have worked very hard to have leaved their pots so well, and then to have made and baked for the refreshments, which were enjoyed by all, and such a lot to feed too. Then the floor was cleared for dancing, and soon was covered by couples, who enjoyed the rest of the evening dancing

To appreciate this play thoroughly it has to be seen and all those who have not yet seen it should endeavour to be there when this humorous and very human play is reproduced

The Ladies of the Women's Institute sincerely appreciate Mr. Wapenstone's singing and offer their hearty thanks to the Public for their generous support

Bow Island News

Mrs. Cook and Mrs. West of Grassy Lake were Medicine Hat visitors last Saturday

This week the "Bow Island Review" received their "School Tax Assessment Notices" and it was found, that these "Tax Notices" this year had been sent Away out of Town to be Printed

The Review wishes to point out to the "Ratepayers" that they have printed these "Notices" other years and they are quite capable of Printing them again, and they "Charge No More" than others, also the "Review" pays their "Full Share" of the "School Taxes" as well as the "Town Taxes" to help keep the School and Town running.

In addition the "Review" has always Contributed Liberally to any worthy object in the Town and District, the "Review" has Never been approached and Refused to do its Full Share both in Cash, Goods, Printing work and Advertisements, these have all been Given Freely and to the best of its ability

The Appeal for Help to the Cry of Distress, Sickness or Suffering has Never fallen on Deaf Ears when brought to the knowledge of the "Bow Island Review" for the "Review" has always stretched forth its Help to the Utmost of its power

So the "Review" would like to ask why are the School Printing Orders sent to Out of Town Printers, who do not help to pay any School, Municipal or Town Taxes here, while the "Review" has paid for 11 years, and this year will make 12 years?

To the Secretaries and Councillors of All Municipalities And Towns And School Boards

WINNIFRED News

The residents of this vicinity have not seen roads as bad since 1915 and that was the year we got such a bumper crop. If it is not water, something, possibly, it means another bumper crop, let us hope so at any rate.

Mrs. Penstock is on the sick list at present with Lumbago, here's hoping she will soon recover.

Our news comes from the fact of our old residents Mr. and Mrs. B.A. Woods who were at one time of Winnifred, that a brand new baby has come to live with them, name Winnifred Genevieve, congratulations.

Mrs. T.F. Parker is on the sick list now with a very bad cold, at this time of the year all possible prevention should be used, for we remember the old adage that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" and it is as much to us now as in olden times.

We are glad to see our old friend Thomas Steadman with us again, he has not gone back on Winnifred, and has shipped his goods and stock from Brooks and will stay with us, every one will give him a warm welcome.

And now the season of gophers has come and it is up to the farmers to go out and doing for the grain coming out, and the pesky gophers will work on all.

We are all glad to welcome Roy McLain back on his farm again as he is one of our best farmers, we wish him the best of success.

Mr. Wollman has rented the Deane farm and have moved there, he is another good farmer.

The community meetings at Fairlight are still drawing a big crowd, all are welcome, the next time will be a debate on the programme.

Mrs. W.A. Long is having a bad attack of Nervous Prostration, we will be glad to see her long up again.

We are happy to have with us again Miss Mary Woske who has been in Lethbridge most of the winter and is at present with her sister Mrs. Harold Shepherd.

Mr. Birch of Winnifred went to Medicine Hat last Saturday to visit his daughter Mabel who has been in the hospital there for blood poisoning which was caused by her cutting a corn, the poisoning set in the big feet of the neck, thus making her feet swell very much, if it went well she was expected to return home on Wednesday last.

Mrs. Goffrey of Winnifred was in Medicine Hat last Saturday visiting Mr. Goffrey at the hospital, who was caused by the war.

Bow Island News

The Women's Institute held their meeting in the G.W.V.A. Hall on Saturday afternoon, there was quite a large attendance, a very nice program was given, Mrs. Geo. After the Program was over, a very delightful lunch was served by Mrs. Ed. Thompson and Mrs. Geo. Thomas.

Prospects for a crop this year is looking better as the snow is melting slow and the hard frost at night stops the flow of water and causes it to go in the ground, the thives of soft snow and rain lately, adds greatly to the moisture in the fields.

Some Cinders would do an immense amount of good, if put down from the steps at the back of the C.P.R. Station on the west side of the road, over to Hough's private residence, near Ladies, Children and Travellers, visiting this town in crossing there often get very inconvenient, and if that Street Lamp was slight outside of the Curing Rink it would be a great convenience to the Public going to and from the Train.

OF GREATEST IMPORTANCE TO THE FARMERS

Which is Better
For The Farmers
Summerfallow or Spring Plowing?

A Farmer Believes in Summer Fallow

The Bow Island Herald (Reviews) are reprinting a "Letter sent to the Herald Review" as it merits the thoughtful consideration of all farmers, as to the respective merits of Summer Fallow or Spring Plowing—because the Herald Review demands the Farmers' Lesson or Gain.

To the Editor of the Review:

On seeing Mr. Wedderburn's letter in your paper, stating that the Survey Boardmen didn't answer the questions, I would like to ask: Did Mr. Wedderburn or any other man expect that the Boardmen would tell them anything? Do those men know about the ways of this part of Alberta. I have been here twenty-seven years the 14th. of next April, and have been farming for nineteen years. I have tried both methods of farming, and there is only one way to farm in this part of Alberta and be successful. That is to summer fallow one year and crop the next. If a man has half a section of land that man summer fallow about one-half and then every year crop.

The Bow Island Herald and the Review have both said an awful lot of things. We all know that the country has got choked full of Russian thistle. If the government up at Edmonton would pass a law that every farmer has to summer fallow and crop year in and year out, there would be very few weeds in this part of Alberta in six years from now. We only need to get a system of farming started and then every farmer farms the same, so Mr. Wedderburn, it is up to you to go up to Edmonton, and crop in force, and try your best to get this law passed.

If this law were passed, a heavy penalty should be imposed upon any who disregard it and part of the penalty could go to the informer.

It is suggested that this country needs dams built in the canyons. This would be spending good money for no good. If the roads can do without much work and expense for two years let them put the money in the bank for a reserve fund, for if the farmers of this part of the country continue farming as at present—nearly everything has to be done by a cultivator for another two years.

The Cry for "Justice" Rings Out In Clarion Notes All Over The Land

No Man Should Be Condemned to Death Who Cannot Hear the Evidence

The whole South of Humanity cries to God for "Justice"—Shall it be Denied them?

One Thousand Times—No! God never denies "Justice" for all whom He has created, "For in the Likeness of God, made He man."

"Pure and Glorious Justice" is the sole Pivot on which Humanity revolves and depends on for its very Existence even unto Life itself.

Woe! Woe! unto the man that Denies his fellow creatures "Justice"—"Justice" that springs like a Living Well from the Heart of the Eternal God!

Better for that man that he had never been born, that denies "Justice" to any one else, for such a man is setting himself up against God—"I will repay saith the Lord—"The neck of God shall be broken and shall never be less most Surely" for God is not mocked.

And now "Justice" is called for and prayed for by hosts of people and especially are the "Great War Veterans" working hard on a "Petition for a New Trial of John Gallagher" on the ground that he was dead and did not understand the evidence brought against him because he could not hear it, who was tried for killing John G. Coward, but there was no actual Proof that he did kill that man, only Circumstantial Evidence.

The Bow Island Herald and the Review have great pleasure in adding its name to the long "Petition" signed by practically every family in town this week.

Naming the Montclare

At the Naming Ceremony of the New Canadian Pacific Steamer "Montclare" by Lady McLaren Brown

"WHY SHIPS AS 'SHE'?"

Inspecting the "model" room before the luncheon, Lady Brown remarked how strange it was that since first they sailed the main ships had always been spoken of as "she." "I suppose," she added, "they made her a woman because they found out that, loved and humoured, she is an angel, but driven—well, she isn't." She thought it was Kipling who said that ships were like women in that they had many secret hopes and dreams. However, that might be, her ladyship trusted that the good ship "Montclare," the new C. P. R. liner, would prove to be what all women hoped and dreamt of—the beautiful, the strong, and the true.

One of the rarest speeches ever heard at a Clyde launch was that by Lady McLaren Brown, following the luncheon at Messrs. Brown's Yard, December 16. While the new Canadian Pacific liner was not put into the water, her ladyship christened the vessel, and as a souvenir she received a beautiful brooch which the captain declared would give a fresh lease of life to her dress and thereby gratify her husband.

The new Canadian Pacific Steamer "Montclare," 16,200 tons, as she appeared before launching at the Yards of Messrs. John Brown & Co., Clydebank, Scotland.

The speaker was the wife of Sir Lady Brown, a Canadian, was both eloquent and witty and was warmly congratulated on her contribution to the prandial oratory.

The Alpine Club of Canada

Living Room Alpine Club, at Banff.

Of all the trails, the mountain ones are most alluring and each year they call to the members of the Alpine Club of Canada who hold their annual camp this season at Lake O'Hara. The camp, known as the "O'Hara Meadows Camp" was an open Alpine Meadow at an altitude of 6,000 feet above sea level, gay with mountain blooms.

The Lake, an Alpine gem, in whose bright surface, with witchery of reflection, towering mountains are held captive, with the bright green of the forests that surround the shore.

This Alpine realm in the heart of the Rockies, a realm of crags and canyons, of startling and overwhelming peaks, has a variety of charms that are never exhausted. The mountains, ranging from ten thousand to eleven thousand, five hundred feet above sea level, include the matchless picture of Lefroy glacier, the great white peaks of Victoria, the massive Cathedral Crags, Steele, Odory and other giants of the Rockies. Each new view beckoned to fresh delight. Below glory in the cabin built by the Swiss guides, in which there is always a camper's cache.

In 1909 the Alpine Club of Canada opened its club house headquarters at Banff and held a special annual camp at Lake O'Hara. It was the unique in that an invitation to attend this camp, as guests of the Alpine Club of Canada, was sent to all members of the Alpine Club of England. A party of 20 accepted the invitation. The guests included mountaineers well known in many parts of the world.

It is interesting to note that in 1920, the Alpine Club of Canada became affiliated with the "Alpine Club" of England, the oldest and most famous of all Alpine clubs.

The annual camp is for the purpose of enabling members of the club to meet together and the great hills of Canada, and to assist graduating members to qualify for active membership. Those who have made an ascent of at least 3,000 feet, are eligible for active membership. Those distinguished in literature, art, or science, relating to mountains, are given certain recognition.

The objects of the club are the study of the scientific study and exploration of Canadian Alpine regions, the cultivation of art in relation to mountain scenery, the education of Canadians to an appreciation of their Canadian heritage, the preservation of mountain scenery, the preservation of the natural beauties of the mountain places and of the fauna and flora in their habitat, is promoted.

The Club House of the Alpine Club of Canada, opened in 1909, is situated on the slope of Sulphur Mountain, 200 feet above the town of Banff. Spread in vast panorama, are the deep river-threaded valleys, the Bow and Spray and the forest clad mountains beyond with their snowy peaks glistening in the sun. From the broad veranda of the Club House, nature scored one harmonious tune.

The Club House is replete with interest. Bowls and baskets of mountain flowers were in artistic arrangement. The fine pictures of Canadian mountains were worthy of study as well as interesting photographs of well known mountaineers of Europe and Canada. The group of men and women who founded the Alpine Club of Canada, are pictured, at their first meeting in Winnipeg in 1906. Included are Professor Jeanman of Toronto and Mrs. Parker of the Winnipeg "Free Press." There is a picture of Sir James Outram, the first man to climb Mount Asahi-boine, the Matterhorn of Canada, and many others of interest.

The stone fireplace in the spacious living room was built in memory of William S. Vaux, a student of glaciers who died in 1908. The drinking fountain in the hall was given by the late Edward Whymper, the hero of the Matterhorn—in its basin, in a bed of moss, grows the little yellow mountain rose.

A treasure of the Club House is a worn copy of the 1917 Constitution of the Alpine Club of Canada, framed, hanging on the walls of the library. Under the caption, "Found in a German dug-out when the Canadians captured Vimy Ridge."

A Miniature Hotel Kitchen

The above interior view is one of the new steel dining cars which are the last word in up-to-date railway construction.

There is not in all Canada a kitchen as fine as this in their polished nickel surfaces, and ready to hand, also looks after the lunch counters, in its well appointed place, is every thing in the way of an aid to cook that the experienced chef may require.

What these miniature hotel kitchens can do may be gathered from a journey from Montreal to Vancouver 11 meals are served on route, and these to an average of 100 persons per meal. There are long stretches during this run when it is impossible to obtain supplies, so the superintendent must see to it that the ice-boxes and larders of each diner are stocked to satisfy the capricious appetites of the travellers en route.

The importance of this branch of a big railroad may be gathered from the fact that the Canadian Pacific Railway has in duty use 150 dining, cafe and buffet cars, a larger number than operated by any other railway in the world. The department also looks after the lunch counters, and dining rooms scattered over its 12,000 miles of rail and to serve the three and a half million meals that are yearly partaken of by travellers on this road, requires the effort of 1,500 stewards, cooks, waiters and other operatives. To serve this large number of meals requires the yearly consumption of the following quantities of supplies:

Fish.....	285,000 lbs.
Meat.....	781,250 "

Canada's First Scotchman

MONUMENT ERECTED TO MAN AFTER WHOM PLAINS OF ABRAHAM WERE NAMED.

For over three hundred years the St. Lawrence River has been the great waterway into the interior of the American Continent. It is the route by which La Salle, Marquette, Joliette, Hennepin and DuRoi penetrated to Lake Michigan. To serve this round about passage had to be taken up the Ottawa and Mattawa Rivers over Lake Nipissing into Lake Huron to avoid the hostile Indians below Lake Erie. For ocean going travel to-day the chief ports are Montreal and Quebec, and these ports show an ever increasing volume of traffic. The shipping season of 1921 was a record for the port of Montreal, where a total of 800 trans-Atlantic tonners, registering a tonnage of 2,998,494 tons, entered and cleared out of the great harbor. This was 105 vessels, or 54,000 tons more than the highest previous record, made in 1919. It also showed a large increase in the number of vessels trading from Montreal to the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, a total of 107 ships registering 193,462 net tons. The trans-Atlantic tonners, carrying many flags, British, Norwegian, American, Italian, Swedish, Greek, Jugo-Slav, Spanish, Finnish and Icelandic, in addition to those on Canadian register.

The profession of pilot on the St. Lawrence is therefore a very important, as it is to these pilots that route with its rapidly increasing tonnage and the safety. There are fifty licensed pilots between Montreal and Quebec, and sixty-two between Quebec and the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The title of pilot is a picturesque incident to the ocean, but on the ship's side.

The first known pilot on the St. Lawrence was Abraham Martin, a French Canadian, who was registered as a pilot in 1671 at the time of the settlement of Quebec, and whose name is on the list of the first pilots. He was a Frenchman, and very possibly a Frenchman, and very possibly a Frenchman, and very possibly a Frenchman.

ascended from one of the numerous soldiers of fortune who fought in the Army of the French King, and perhaps formed one of the Scots Guard which became famous in the days of Louis the Eleventh and played an important part in Sir Walter Scott's romance of Quentin Durward.

The Plains of Abraham are named from the grant of land which Abraham Martin received from Samuel de Champlain in 1671 at the time of the settlement of Quebec, and whose name is on the list of the first pilots. He was a Frenchman, and very possibly a Frenchman, and very possibly a Frenchman.

"Look here," he challenged, "I thought you were married, but—aren't you marrying me, or that comraded money?"

Miss Maggie laughed merrily. "Yes, I know; but you see—"

"She stopped there. An odd expression came to her eyes.

Suddenly she laughed again, and threw into his eyes a look so merry, so whimsical, so altogether challenging, that he demurred.

"Well, what is it now?"

"Oh, it's so good, I have—half a mind to tell you."

"Of course you'll tell me. Where are you going?" he asked discontentedly.

Miss Maggie had left the sofa, and was standing, as if half poised for flight, midway to the door.

"I think—yes, I will tell you," she nodded, her cheeks very pink; "but I wanted to be over here, to tell it."

"Way over there?"

"Yes, way over there. Do you remember those letters I got awhile ago, the ones from the lawyer, that I—I wouldn't tell you about?"

"Should say I did."

"Well, they—they have something to do—with money."

"I knew they did!" triumphed the man. "Oh, why wouldn't you tell me?"

me then—and let me help you some way?"

She shook her head nervously and looked toward the door. He had half started from his seat.

"No, stay there. If you don't—I won't tell you."

He fell back, but with obvious reluctance.

"Well, as I said, it did have something to do—with money. But not money, when you asked me if I was marrying you or your money."

"But I was in the—'you know I was in the'—defended the man boldly. 'I know that,' nodded Miss Maggie. 'But it—it made me laugh and see they weren't as you thought. They didn't tell me of—money fact. They told me of money—'altered."

"Yes. That father's cousin George in Alaska had died and left me fifty thousand dollars."

"But, my dear woman, why in Heaven's name wouldn't you tell me that?"

"Because," Miss Maggie took a step nearer the door. "You see, I—I wouldn't even own up to it myself, but I knew, in my heart, that I was afraid, if you heard I had this money, you wouldn't—you wouldn't—ask me to do—"

She was blushing so adorably now that the man understood and leaped to his feet.

"But the door had shut—Miss Maggie had fled."

CHAPTER XXIV. That Miserable Money

In the evening, after the Martin girls had gone to their rooms, Miss Maggie and Mr. Smith faced the things which were to come.

"Of course," he began with a sigh, "I'm really not at all happy. I'm really happy as I am. I'm really happy in the woods than ever, for these times and these with me, to look out on, very successfully John Hilbert into nothingness—Maggie that can't."

"No, I know she can't," admitted Miss Maggie soberly.

"Yet, if she marries John Hilbert, she will have—'if I don't marry him, how's Stanley G. Fulton going to be getting?' He can't come here."

"But he must," said Miss Maggie looking up with startled eyes. "Why, Mr. Smith, you have to tell them—who you are. You'll have to tell them that right away."

"The man made a playfully very face. 'I shall be glad,' he observed, 'when I can't have to be held off at the end of it. However, we'll let that pass—until we settle the matter. We'll have to tell them that right away.'"

Baby's Own Soap

so fragrant and refreshing

like this: pretty quick, now, Mr. Smith was to announce the completion of his Blatdeli dairy, and, with properly grateful farewells, take his departure from Hillerton. He would go to South America. There he would go inland on some sort of a simple expedition with a few native guides and carriers, but no other companions. Somewhere in the wilderness he would shed his beard and his name and would emerge in the proper person of Stanley G. Fulton and promptly take passage for the States. Of course, upon the arrival in Chicago of Mr. Stanley G. Fulton, there would be a slight flurry at his appearance, and a few references to the hundred-thousand-dollar gift from the Eastern relatives, and sundry speculations as to the way and how of the exploring trip. There would be various rumors and alleged interviews; but Mr. Stanley G. Fulton never was disturbed by his communicative powers, and never allowed himself to be worried by the denials as to his whereabouts. And there, in the quietude of his life, he would end.

"Oh, I see," murmured Miss Maggie, in very evident relief. "That would be better in some way; only it does seem terrible not to—tell them who you are."

"But what have I not proved that to do that wouldn't bring happiness anywhere, and would bring misery everywhere, wouldn't it?"

"They say I do it—particularly as by not doing it I am not defrauding anybody in the least. No; that isn't worrying me a bit now—but that one point that does worry me very much."

The Ex-Kaiser Is Doing It in Book He Is Composing

For the past year the ex-kaiser has been doing two things in his refuge—sawing wood and writing a book. Several chapters of the latter have been viewed by a close friend of the former ruler.

"What a book it is!" that friend declared to the International Sunday Times. "It is ever published, it will be a death blow to monarchism in Germany for 100 years."

The informant said the book would indicate that the ex-kaiser had been a little, if anything, by his defeat, and the vast changes that have come over the world since 1918.

New Method for Making Hay

Alternate Current of Electricity Will Do Work of Sun

There is a method recently worked out in Switzerland for producing sweet mown grass without first drying it in the sun. All you do is to crank the grass out of the meadow, stack it, and let an alternate current of electricity begin and complete the process.

When the method is made commercially practicable, farmers will no doubt, rub their hands in glee at this new conquest of the weather. But let us not be too hasty.

First, it is not a conquest of the weather, but a conquest of the sun. It is a conquest of the sun to the language of a proverb that seemed centuries of immortality. In fact, to advise a doubling friend, with that familiar emphasis which suggests the content of all the wisdom of the ages, to "make hay while the sun shines," will be merely to acknowledge yourself a witless ignoramus.—London Daily News.

Age Does Not Count

Some of World's Most Active Men are Over Seventy

Don't worry because old age seems to be creeping upon you. Judge Cury, who is the active head of the United States Steel Corporation, is over seventy. In fact, he was past fifty when that corporation came into being. Lord Leverhulme, and the great Lever Brothers' soap interests, owning companies scattered all over the world, is just about the age of Judge Cury, and there isn't a man in his employ who equals him in energy and initiative. The man who quits at fifty because he thinks he is getting old is merely choosing a pleasant way of committing suicide.—Fortune Magazine.

Too Literal

The vanguard who accompanied the form of a bill that accompanied the delivery of three tons of coal to the factory. He could not understand why the bill should be made out "One ton of coal, 50 shillings; ditto, ditto." The rector explained that the use of the word "ditto" saved the writer of the whole sentence three times.

The next Sunday morning the vanguard was met by a group of men, shouting: "Hymn, No. 187. Art thou weary? Dito languid? Dito are distressed?"

Tuberculosis?*A Question that Needs

Mr. G. H. Hutton of Calgary says in his opinion "that silage does not bring on Tuberculosis."

But the "Review" warns Farmers to Use Care and "Proceed with Caution, because Mr. A. H. Bowler of Sedgewick, gave most clear, lucid and keenly sensible reasons, "why Silage might induce Tuberculosis" and he also has had Many Years of Experience as a Practical Farmer, not an arm chair Farmer, and he has been through the "Bitter School of Experience" that teaches more deeply than any Theorist and Mr. Bowler says, "that Fermentation Does take place, more or less, according to Method and Care in Storing."

Now where Fermentation takes place there is Acid and he believes that the Acid in the Grains he fed caused the death of six of his "best cows" (see last week's Review), and it seems possible that some Fermentation does take place with Sunflower, Corn or any other Silage; that unhealthy and dangerous Acid may be produced, to the great detriment of any Stock that is being fed with such Silage.

Mr. G. H. Hutton does not seem to reply "clearly enough to Mr. A. H. Bowler's clear cut question, "If any Experiments have been made or Tests conducted at Experimental Farms elsewhere to determine what "Effect" the Feeding of Large quantities of Silage has on the health of Stock feeding it?"

Mr. Hutton simply answered "that in his Opinion, Silage does not bring on Tuberculosis."

But the "Review" strongly advocates in the interests of the vast numbers of Farmers affected—that "Special and Exhaustive Tests" should be made at the Experimental Farms to prove "whether these Silages contain "Injurious Acids" the result of "Fermentation" and that such Acids produced, are or are not deadly to Stock."

On Saturday March the 18th, Mr. H. Percy Johnston the young Teller of the Standard Bank, received notice from Calgary to report at once, at the Supervisor's Office and he left here last Tuesday morning and has accepted the position as Accountant in the Supervisor's Office.

Percy came to Burdett with his parents 13 years ago, when he was a small boy, he began his school days in Burdett and finished in the Burdett Consolidated School.

During the Great War, Percy not being of Military age, did his bit by working in the Bank during his holidays and other odd times, when he left school in 1920, was taken on the permanent staff where he has been ever since. First as Junior, Ledger-keeper and then Teller.

During his life here he made many friends and everyone is glad to hear of Percy's promotion, and wish him every success in his new life, "although the community will miss him, in many ways."

D. H. Colman of Hillcrest, spent the week end in town.

The farewell party given by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. White was a huge success, about thirty being present. A splendid musical program was given, all the very latest music in Fox Trot, one step and Waltzes were in evidence dancing lasted till 7.30 a.m. Mr. and Mrs. White and family are splendid entertainers and we regret they are leaving this part of the country. Are Becoming a Furdn

GRASSY LAKE, Mar. 15.—A meeting of ladies was held last Saturday afternoon in the Jack McNabb store and it was decided to organize a Women's Institute. Mrs. F. Porter, of the Kinburn district, organizer for the Taber constituency, attended. Mrs. M. M. Webb was asked to take the chair. The name of the Institute is to be "Better Days." Two weeks ago it was decided to abandon the local U.F.A. on account of the continual raise of the fee, becoming too high in the estimation of the majority of the members and to organize a branch of the Women's Institute. It was agreed to meet again on March 25th, at the residence of Mrs. W. McEwen, when officers will be elected for the year and other business transacted.

The majority of the Farmers seem to have decided on $10 a month and Board as the Average pay for Farm Help this Spring.

Many people have noticed that the big flies are just creeping out from their Winter hiding places. Now is the time to treat them and save having millions later on to pester you.
